II. SHORT HISTORY OF THE CLINICAL EPIDEMIOLOGY UNIT

Since 2012 in the study program of Doctoral School of the Nicolae Testemitanu State University of Medicine and Pharmacy are included research methodology, biostatistics and evidence-based medicine.

In order to improve research projects presented by PhD, postdoctoral and scientific researchers, the Research Ethics Committee of the SUMPh offers consultations for the correct formulation of the purpose of study, objectives, calculation of study groups, outlining inclusion and exclusion criteria for research, recommend statistical methods of analysis etc. These consultations are carried out with the presence of the scientific supervisor and the doctoral student/ postdoctoral student.

In the context of the training of the teaching staff in the research methodology, which represents one of the indicators of Quality Management in 2017 within the framework of the partnership with the University of Medicine and Pharmacy „Gr. T. Popa” from Iasi, Romania at the proposal of Mrs. Prof. Doina Azoicăi and the approval of the SUMPh Mr. prof., academician Ion Ababii was initiated the procedure for establishing the Clinical Epidemiology Units in order to provide support to students, teachers and researchers in the institution.

Thus with the support of the administration, 4 training modules were developed at the in order to create the Clinical Epidemiology Unit (UEC). During the 2018-2019, with the support of the Network of Francophone International Clinical Epidemiology (RECIF) 18 university employees were trained (list to be attached). Professor Doina Azoicăi from University of Medicine and Pharmacy UMF „Gr. T. Popa”, Iasi, Romania, was appointed Responsible for the training seminars with support of teachers from partner institutions in Romania and France.

The first training module was held on June 24-29, 2018 and was supported by Mrs. Azoicai Doina, university professor, University of Medicine and Pharmacy „Gr. T. Popa” from Iasi, Romania. The purpose of this module was to present the basic elements regarding the types of study, the research protocol, aspects related to the descriptive and analytical statistics used in medical research, the method of critical evaluation of the medical literature, etc.

Accreditation file of the Clinical Epidemiology Unit

At the second training module in period 23 to 28 September 2018, the trainers were Mrs. Azoicăi Doina and Mr. Cristian-Rasvan Băicuș, university professor, „Carol Davila” University of Medicine and Pharmacy of Bucharest, Romania

The third round of lectures was held on November 19-23, 2018, having as a trainer Mrs. Azoicăi Doina and Mr. Vladimir Bacârea, university professor, University of Medicine, Pharmacy, Science and Technology in Tîrgu Mureș, Romania. Were presented comparing media and comparing multiple media, general notions on quality of life studies and validity of various quality of life scales, linear regressions and correlations, economic studies, the significance of "p" and systematic errors in clinical research. Practical application were that participants elaborate a study protocol taking into account all the theoretical elements presented, they performed a critical analysis of a quality of life study and compared the multiple averages using the statistical indicators Kruskall Wallis and Mann Whitney. Were presented linear and multiple regressions and they used the method of statistical interpretation based on the Kaplan Mayer regression model and performed processing through the Graph Prism program.

The training course was finished with module held between February 16-23, 2019 and was moderated by Ms. Azoicai Doina and Mr. Pierre Duhaut, university professor, University of Picardy "Jules Verne", France. As a result 18 teachers of State University of Medicine and Pharmacy "Nicolae Testemitanu" were trained.

On May 20, 2019 was created the Clinical Epidemiology Unit according to the order nr. 145-A of the rector in the following composition: Spinei Larisa Ph.D., University Professor, Hadjiu Svetlana Ph.D., University Professor, Spinei Aurelia Ph.D., University Professor, Adauji Stela, PhD, University Professor, Arnaut Oleg PhD, Associate Professor, Vetrilă Snejana PhD, Associate Professor, Banov Pavel PhD, Associate Professor.

At present, beginning of the academic year 2019-2020 the Clinical Epidemiology Unit of Nicolae Testemitanu State University of Medicine and Pharmacy is preparing for the international accreditation that starts, in accordance with the requirements of RECIF.
